

Arranging a LifeArt Coffin.

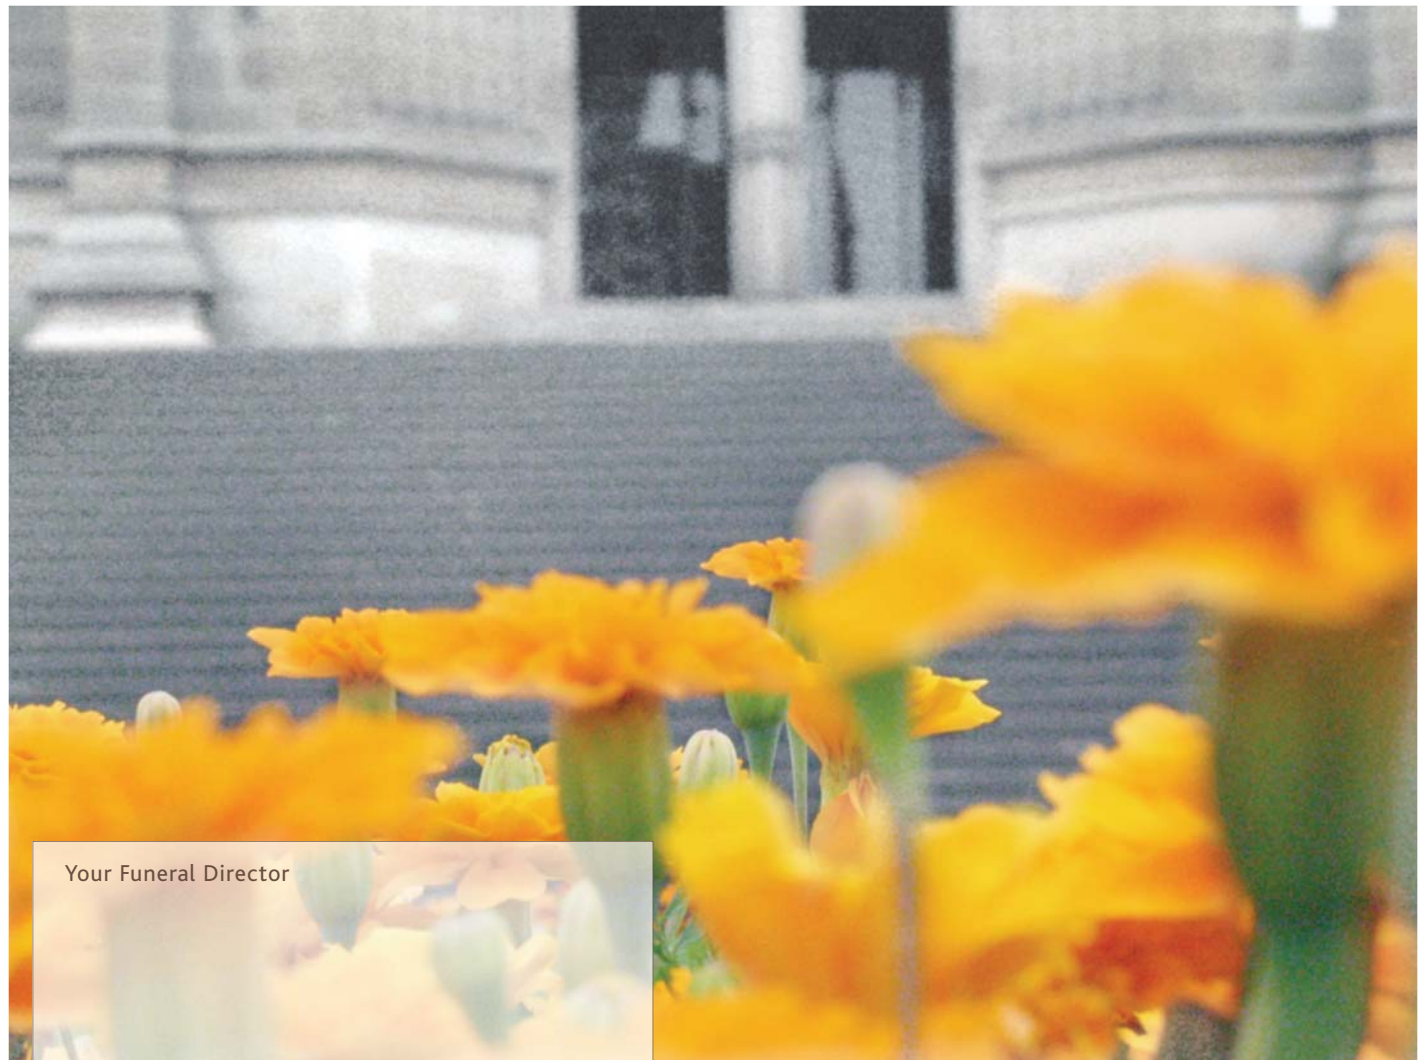

Your funeral director will assist you in selecting a design and making it personal and memorable. You select the design that best reflects the personality of the person, choose the way the name will appear, and select the words that make it unique and memorable.

You have a choice of a new Enviroboard coffin, or a traditional Kraftwood coffin. Your funeral director will then make all the arrangements for the LifeArt coffin as part of the funeral service.

Enviroboard

Enviroboard is the latest technology in coffin materials. Because Enviroboard uses only one tenth of the new wood used in traditional coffin materials it helps to preserve the environment. A unique sandwich construction and protective coatings make Enviroboard coffins light and strong. LifeArt Enviroboard coffins are Australian made and meet the strict standards for use in Australian funerals.

Should you prefer a more traditional material, LifeArt coffins are also available in traditional Kraftwood.
